Frank Platt, Counsel for the Committee, Says That Only Prompt and Practical Mutualization Can Stop the Demand for an investigation of the Society,

Frank H. Platt, counsel for the Equitable Life Policyholders' Committee, said yesterday that a statement appearing in some of Saturday's papers to the effect that Mr. Hyde does not feel that it would be safe to give the policyholders of the Equitable the immediate control which is ultimately contemplated, confirms the fears and suspicions entertained by the policyholders'

"This will be disquieting news to the policyholders," said Mr. Platt. "The movement for mutualization sprang from a settled conviction that a continuance of one man control of the society, with its vast funds, was detrimental to the interests of the policyholders and must be terminated. The concession of mutualization, creditable as it may be to Mr. Hyde and his advisers, was due to the strength of the demand and the reasons underlying it. It can hardly be said to be logical that the one man control of the Equitable is so dangerous as to require termination, and at the same time that its abrupt termination is itself a danger. I know something of the reasons underlying this demand, and it will suffice to say that they are cogent and sound. It is a great pity that the offer of mutualization is not made in unmistakable form, that it cannot be realized with promptness and that the momentary satisfaction with which it was received by the policyholders must give way to a feeling that it is less substantial than it appeared and that the contest for the protection of the policyholders' interests must be continued.

"Mutualization is either necessary or it is not necessary. The question has no importance as a mere contest between conflicting theories of control. The Equitable Life Assurance Society has had a record of unbroken success since its establishment. The question of mutualization never became pressing until a wide distrust arose as to the disinterestedness and safety of the one man control. The suggestion that the present board of directors are men' of great experience in the business of insurance and peculiarly capable, aside from their high standing and character, of giving the Equitable a highly trained and efficient supervision, is one that I think the board of directors themselves would not take seriously. The board of directors meets quarterly. It is composed of men in every walk of life, many of whom do not reside in New York, and only a relatively small proportion of whom attend its meetings. Its composition has been fully set forth and widely criticised in the papers. With a few exceptions the board are merely nominees of the stock-holding control.

board are merely nominees of the stockholding control.

"The committee of the board has recommended that a majority of the board hereafter be elected by the policyholders. If the conditions demand corrective measures of this sort, it is silly to postpone the application of the corrective for a period of four years. It has been stated that Mr. Hyde feels that, having the power to nominate and elect twenty-four directors, he still believes that he may gain the three or four additional votes to give him the actual control. This can batdly be regarded as an argument in favor of the substantial character of the concession of mutualization.
I do not attach much importance to it, however, as I do not believe that any one can control twenty-four men of character and independence in the sense that it would appear Mr. Hyde believes he can.

appear Mr. Hyde believes he can.
While such talk is somewhat disquieting to the policyholders, whom the committee of the board of directors and the board itself are manifestly concerned in appeasing, we believe that with the substantial ma-jority of the board of directors it would be impossible to carry any measure that was not in the interests of the policyholders or to continue any condition that was not in keeping with their interests. The postin keeping with their interests. The postponement, however, of the passage of control is regarded as a distinct qualification of the proposed plan, and unless some way can be found of realizing the proposed mutualization movement except after a four year postponement, with all the possibilities of its defeat through scheming and intrigue, I am convinced that the widespread movement among the policyholders for the assertion and securing of their rights will be carried on with renewed vigor. will be carried on with renewed vigor.

"I furthermore believe that nothing can stop the demand for an investigation of the society except the practical, prompt and unmistakable mutualization of it. The latter would give to the policyholders the clear power as well as right to investigate and to institute needed changes and reand to institute needed changes and reforms. A postponement or qualification of that opportunity will but accentuate the growing feeling that there is not only a conflict of interests, but a very clearly outlined contest between the policyholders, on the one hand, and the strongly intrenched interests who are seeking to continue their power within the society by curtailing and qualifying the loudly heralded mutualization."

Ashea Waba of 241 West Ninety-first street. who says she is the "Little Egypt" of Seeley dinner fame, and Blanche Ross of 221 West Eighty-sixth street, known as "Little Iris." were arraigned in the West Side court yesterday, on the charge of taking $200 rom Clifford Grant of 115 Lawrence street, Brooklyn, who has been "Little Egypt's"

Brooklyn, who has been "Little Egypt's manager.

Grant said the money was, taken from his pockets on Saturday night while he was asleep in a flat at 253 West Thirty-ninth street.

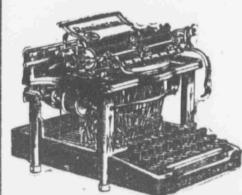

When the detectives made the arrest the Boss woman gave up $70 and threw $30 more behind an easel. She said this was money Grant owed her. The other woman had no money. She says that Grant's wife was appearing on the stage as woman had no money. She says that Grant's wife was appearing on the stage as "La Belle Egypt," which she asserts is an infringement on her title, and that Grant owed her the money for the use of the title, as well as for salary. Grant himself failed to appear in court, and Magistrate Cornell discharged the women.

TROUBLE ON FOR FAIRBANKS

OPPOSITION TO NEW LIKELY TO BRING IT ON.

Effort to Prevent the Indiana Man From Becoming National Chairman Will Probably Divide the Party in the Hoosier State-The Situation Described

INDIANAPOLIS, March 19.-Indiana Reublicans, who for years have regarded Vice-President Fairbanks as an adroit party leader and a "safe" politician, are greatly surprised that at this late day he would invite formidable opposition in his home State to his candidacy for the Presichoice of President Roosevelt and Mr. Corof the national Republican committee. They argue that Harry S. New, whatever may be his personal feelings toward Mr Fairbanks, would not have attempted to use his place to defeat an Indiana candidate. and that the State would certainly have sent a solid Fairbanks delegation to the national convention. In the expected defeat of New, however, they see the opportunity for the formation of an anti-Fairbanks organization in the State, for it is a well known fact that many Republicans are tired of dictation by the Fairbanks influence and that open revolt has been prevented in the past only because these men were without an aggressive leader. Mr. Fairbanks has caused the statement to be published here that he cares nothing about the chairmanship, is wholly indifferent regarding it, and has not made any protest against the selection of New. On the other hand, friends of Capt. New, who have been to Washington in his interest and who were in consultation with Secretary Cortelyou and President Roosevelt, have returned with a very decided impression that the appointment has not been made because it was distasteful to

There can be no doubt of the friendship of the President for New nor of the fact that cessor to Mr. Cortelyou as the head of the possible, without exciting friction in any quarter. It is known here that the President discussed the matter with New and that he suggested that there "was something better" that New might have if he wanted it. But New didn't want anything better. He does not want office and will not accept it. He was g nerous enough to say to the President that, while he would not accept any appointment under the Administration and wanted to succeed Mr. Cortelyou as national chairman, he did not want the place if the appointment would in any way embarrass the President or his Secretary. He left Washington immediately after thus defining his position. In the meantime a very distinct line of lemarcation is being drawn between the Fairbanks and anti-Fairbanks followings as a result of the controversy. Probably no man in Indiana could command more influence in opposition to Fairbanks than Harry S. New. There is hardly one of Senator Beveridge's friends who would not line up under his leadership if the defeat of Fairbanks for the Presidential nomination were the object in view.

The Fairbanks men are not idle. Their bureau is industriously at work and his partisans are making appeals to Bepublicans, especially the younger class, and en-deavoring to prevent anything like a move-ment to the ranks of the opposition. They ment to the ranks of the opposition. They confess that it has gone out over the country that Mr. Fairbanks will have opposition in his own State and that some of the Presidential candidates may attempt to make capital out of this fact.

NO RELIEF FOR SAVINGS BANKS. Odell Forbade the Tax Repeal Higgins Spoke Up For.

The town was full of Republican legislators vesterday. If one-quarter of the stories told by them under their breaths are true, things are not very comfortable or wholesome at Albany. Probably the most important chapter at the moment they said, was the failure to repeal the tax on savings bank surplus. It was stated positively and emphatically by Republicans in the inner circles that Chairman Odell before leaving for Europe had instructed the triumvirate formed by him to run things at Albany that under no circumstances must this tax be repealed. The

"If any taxes beretofore levied, especially such as affect the savings of the people, appear to be unjust or unnecessary, we favor such revision of the tax laws as will equitably correct such condition."

Legislature, sent on Jan. 4, he recommended the repeal of the savings bank tax in the following unequivocal language:

The tax on the surplus and undivided profits of savings banks appears in its prac-tical operation to be a tax upon the depositors and is therefore contrary to the long established policy of the State to exempt from taxation the savings of those who make e of these banks. The amount of the tax charged against the current earnings of the bank and is not taken from the surplus, and it is claimed that the bank is therefore inable to pay the same rates of interest to positors as it would if the tax were not posed. A reduction of the interest on these accounts is a hardship to those affected thereby, and I recommend the repeal of this tax. The receipts from this source for the past fiscal year were $720,000, and the revenue thus lost must be made up; but at the same time justice seems to demand that this tax be abolished and that some more equitable method of raising the amount be resorted to.

The Legislature has been in session a ourn within a month, and yet no adminisration bill has been introduced at Albany tration bill has been introduced at Aidany to repeal the savings bank tax as prom-ised in the Republican State platform or as recommended so strongly by Gov. Higgins in his message to the Legislature.

HOOKER AND BISSERT CASE

ODELL MAYBE WOULDN'T RELISH BEING A WITNESS.

There Are Some Things That Have Not Been Presented Against Justice Hooker -Maybe L. N. Littauer and W. L. Ward Will Go Before Assembly Committee.

One of the reasons why Mr. Odell left for Europe at the time he did," said a Republican yesterday who is familiar with many secret things, "was because he did not want to be called as a witness in the Hooker case. Higgins's first message to the Republicans in the State are acquainted egislature, sent on Jan. 4, he recommended with all the details of the George Bissert affair, in which Justice Hooker and Mr. Odell as Governor of the State were the principals. It is very likely that the Bissert case will be presented to the Assembly committee at Albany. Mr. Odell was aware that it might be investigated by that committee, and he of course would have been called as a witness. Mr. Littauer was in Albany the other day, and it was said then that he might be called as a witness before the Assembly committee to tell all that took place between Gov. Odell and Justice Hooker at the Hotel Manhattan and elsewhere in New York city, and Mr. Ward is also likely to be called as a witness to tell what he knows about the Bissert affair and the connection of Gov.
